ABSTRACT

A composition and method for coating medical devices is provided. One embodiment of the present invention employs a coating composition comprising hyaluronic acid and heparin. Another embodiment of the present invention employs a coating composition comprising poly-lysine and heparin. Yet another embodiment of the present invention employs a coating composition comprising hirudin, a peptide and heparin.